

Like truck sales, the Cachet Software systems can be run at multiple different locations, with one branch being designated the master branch responsible for maintaining the master products file. The other branches synchronise their products and Price Book files with this main branch while maintaining their own stock counts.

Stock transfers between the branches can be semi automated, requiring just one of the branches to do any data entry.

All branches would communicate directly back with the one central MoneyWorks system, for the downloading of completed invoices.

Each branch could have any number of Truck Sales systems associated with it.
